How I like the gay time of spring That makes leaves and
And I like it when the scouts Make peo ple with And like - wise I like a lord Who's first man out Ma - ces, swords, hel - mets, col - or - fully, Shields, slic - ing and I tell you, no plea - sure's so large (Not eat - ing, drink - flow - ers grow And how I like the pier - cing ring Of proper - ty flee And I like it when I see the rout Of a in the fray On horse, like armed when fear - less - ly forward In - smash - ing We'll see, at the start of the me - lee With ing or sleep As when I hear the cry of "Charge!" Or birds as their songs go E - cho - ing a - mong the swarm of op - pos - ing ar - mies And O! how my spi - rits spi - ring his men to o - bey With his val - iant - all those vas - sals clashing And their hor - ses run - ning out of the dar - kend deep A hor - se's whin - ny - ing re - wood I like it when I see the yield Of tents and a - dore The sight of the strongcast - les at - tacked With bar - ri - deeds And when bat - tle's get - ting fierce Ev - ery - one's free From their mas - ters, hit, down - tread Once the frain Or the cry: "Help, bring aid!" As big and pa - vil-ions in fields And O! it makes me feel good To cades bro-ken and hacked And troops waiting on the shore That prompt to pierce And free - ly fol - low his lead For a charge has been led Ev - er - y man of no - bil - i - ty Will little in turn cas - cade In - to dit-ches a - cross the plain And I see ar - rayed on bat - tle - fields Hor - ses and horse - men with com - plete - ly en - cir - cled by ditches With strong staked rows in - ter - sol - dier is soon for - sa - ken Unless - he's given many - blows and hack at arms and legs and heads Bet - ter than pri - son - er, be
